DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 4-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by WO 00/05038. RE claim 4, Figs. 2 and 5 show an illuminated tool holder having a light source "34" to illuminate the tips of a plurality of instruments "21" which are pivotally nested in a hand grip "10". RE claim 5, see light switch "31". Re claims 6 and 7, note in Figs. 2 and 5 that grip "10" has multiple tools "21", which pivotally rotate to provide the recited 15 to 60 degrees of positioning. Re claims 8 and 9, note that the grip "10" is sized to ergonomically rest in the left or right hand of the user.

3. Claims 4-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by CHUNG (6,511,199). RE claim 4, Figs. 2 and 5 show an illuminated tool holder having a light source "34" to illuminate the tips of a plurality of instruments "21" which are pivotally nested in a hand grip "10". RE claim 5, see light switch "31". Re claims 6 and 7, note in Figs.2 and 5 that grip "10" has multiple tools "21", which pivotally rotate to provide the recited 15 to 60 degrees of positioning. Re claims 8 and 9, note that the grip "10" is sized to ergonomically rest in the left or right hand of the user.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 1/12/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's argument that the CHUNG references do not anticipate the claimed invention are not persuasive. For example, claim 4 merely recites a light source to illuminate the tip of an instrument and a handheld grip to accept a variety of instruments. As clearly shown for example in Fig.2 of Chung (6511199), there is a light source "34" for illuminating the tip of the instrument and a handle holding a variety of those instruments "20". Further applicant's argument that Chung only provides illumination along the same axis of the tool and therefore is unable to provide illumination at the tool tip is not understood. Chung illumination source "34" is offset from the main central axis of the tool and therefore it is physically impossible given the light source's location to provide illumination along the same axis as the tool. Further, Chung clearly discloses in the "Summary of the Invention" in col.1, lines 47-51, that the "... hand tools which includes lighting equipment for lighting the area at the working end of the tool..." . The working end of the tool is the tip of most tools and therefore illuminating the working end of the tool illuminates the tip of the tool. Finally, Chung 's multi-position docking system as best shown in Fig.5 provides at least a 15-60 degree positioning of his multiple instruments to the longitudinal axis of the illumination source as set forth in applicant's claim 7. It appears that applicant is arguing that the angle of intersection between the longitudinal axis of the illumination source and the longitudinal axis of the instrument is an acute angle between 15-60 degrees but never actually reciting or claiming that limitation. Applicant is asked to study the reference to Chung (6511199) for the necessary detailed claim structure to positively and clearly recite the limitations, which constitute his invention. It is for the reasons set forth above that applicant's arguments that appear to be mainly drawn to details of the invention, which are shown but never claimed, are considered non-persuasive.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

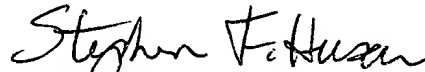

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
